Short Route From C.N. Pass to Calgary

Dr. DeLong and Frank G. Graham
Making Exploring Trip to Prove
Feasibility of New Route

Believing that the trip from the Crow's Nest Pass towns to Calgary by automobile can be made in approximately 100 miles or little better, a trial trip is to be made this week end in Dr. DeLong's car. The proposed route is east to near Lundbreck, turning and journeying northeast to Claresholm, striking the Macleod Calgary trail and thence north to Calgary.

Mr. Graham and others with whom he discussed the proposed route believe it will open possibilities of further development, and the report of the trip as to fitness of the roads, mileage and other details will be looked for with keen interest by people of the towns in this area.

The necessity of travelling via Macleod would be eliminated and cut over a hundred miles from the round trip as at present travelled.

The Tuxis group has re-organized with Ernest Houghton as mentor, and Gordon Milley, leader. The group is undenominational and commences the season with about 20 members.

Bobbie Dewar Passed On

After an illness extending over several months, Bobbie, only son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Dewar, passed away at 5:50 p.m. Saturday, in his tenth year. During the week hopes were held for his recovery, as he appeared to be improving, but though everything was done to prolong life, the inevitable end came peacefully.

The news quickly spread and messages of sympathy immediately began to pour into the grief-stricken home, for Bobbie was a general favorite and his passing caused a gloom in the hearts of all who knew him.

The funeral service was held at the home on Tuesday afternoon, attended by a large number of friends of the family. The flag was flown at half mast at the school, and the pall-bearers were chosen from his schoolmates, namely: Lyman Borden, Jim McDonald, Neil Fleming, Bob Emmerson, David Smith and Fernie DeCoco.

The Rev. A. E. Larke officiated, and the comforting hymn, "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," was sung.

The service at the graveside was attended by many sympathizing friends, the beautiful white covered casket and bank of floral tributes being emblematic of that pure little life which God in His wisdom and mercy called home.

Deadlock Again Imminent at Estevan

Lignite Mine Owners-Claim Cannot Raise Wages and Compete With Strip Mines

Since the older mines of the Bienfait area were opened, another factor has developed within the past two or three years which has added to their difficulties. A short distance east of Estevan big steam shovels were put to work by the Trux Tracer Co stripping off the top soil and harvesting the coal by what is known as the stripping process, which has been employed for some years in the North Dakota lignite fields.

A similar process is used on the "big showing" at Corbin.

The deep seam mines, as they are termed in that field, find they cannot produce coal as cheaply as by the stripping process. Prior to the stripping method being introduced, there was the very keenest competition among the mines to secure orders, with the result that wages were always kept at a low level. This competition is now greatly accentuated.

Mine operators have asked the government of Saskatchewan to penalize the stripping company for tearing up land and making it unfit for further use, or grant a subsidy to the deep seam mines. The government refuses to take action.

The operators now state that they cannot raise wages and meet prices in competition with the strip mine. The result is that a further strike is imminent, as the union leaders are against the miners going back on the old basis, which was the cause of the strike which culminated in the fatal riot at Estevan.

It would appear that there are indeed difficult times ahead for the lignite mines and the workers in that field. The outcome will be observed with keen interest by all who are engaged in or dependent on the coal industry in Western Canada.

St. Alban's Church Plan Improvements

Vestry Considering Excavating Beneath Building to Provide New Parish Hall

For a considerable time the parishioners of St. Alban's have considered ways and means whereby they might improve the old parish hall. As it would cost a considerable sum to repair the old hall and make it suitable for parish activities, the vestry at a meeting on Wednesday decided to ascertain the cost of a concrete basement under the church, sufficiently deep to enable it to be used in place of the hall at present in use.

It is considered it would prove more economical over a term of years to adopt this plan; and also prove an asset to the church building, making for greater comfort. Overhead costs in insurance, heating and maintenance on the present hall would be eliminated, and the money thus saved would help to pay the interest on the added investment capital.

As a result of the deliberations of the vestry, a committee was appointed to interview J. S. D'Apolonia, contractor, and secure an estimate of the cost, so that financial arrangements might be made with the Synod executive.

The plan has met with the approval of several of the parishioners, and further details will be laid before the parishioners as soon as definite data is assembled.

7 lb Trout Wins Prize

The Nipigon Shield, awarded annually by the Canadian National Railways' hotel department to the angler, guest at Nipigon Lodge, who takes the largest square-tailed speckled trout from the Nipigon waters, goes this year to H. A. Leitch, of 102 Winnipeg Avenue, Port Arthur. Mr. Leitch gained the award with a trout weighing seven pounds five ounces, with a length of 26 inches and measuring 16½ inches around the girth. The runner up was Dr. A. M. Northrup, secretary of Labor and Industry, Harrisburg, Pa., who landed a fish weighing seven pounds two ounces.

Blairmore Not to Blame

The Journal is informed that Blairmore was not responsible for the suspension of "Bill" Gate and Tony Vrejova from the hockey league till Dec. 31. The action was taken by Secretary Bellamy, of Wetaskiwin, after reading the report of these players taking part in a baseball game for which $200 was offered as a prize. Mr. S. Bannan is the Blairmore director of the Amateur Athletic Association of Alberta, and the suspension was decided on by two other directors of the association.

Hockey Players on Annual Trek

With the balmy days of a perfect Indian summer lingering on the prairies, it is difficult to remember that grim winter is just around the corner. Thoughts of winter sport are far from the minds of the average westerner, but to the professional hockey player, the coming of autumn marks the beginning of a hard winter's work. The annual trek of moneyed pucksters has started with members of the Chicago Blackhawks, as usual, forming the vanguard of Canadian hockey players moving to training quarters. Five members of the Blackhawks brigade recently left the west for Chicago over Canadian National Railways. They included Harold March, Regina; Earl Miller, Lumsden; Lolo Couture, Winnipeg; and two recruits from Edmonton, Louis Holmes and Frank Donald.

Magazines as Gifts

Attention is drawn to the advertisement of Maclean publications, for which The Journal will be pleased to take subscriptions. A year's subscription to any of these magazines would make a Christmas gift which would be a pleasant and welcome reminder of the giver throughout the year, especially to relatives or friends in other countries. Maclean's and The Chateleine are largely used for this purpose, as they contain such a wealth of information concerning Canada. Look up the gift offer prices in the advertisement.

Will be Subject of Rev. A. E. Larke's Address at St. Paul's United Church Sunday

On Sunday evening at 7 o'clock the above title will be the subject of the address. The death of this famous inventor has renewed public interest in his life and work, therefore this address should prove timely and interesting.

At the morning service at 11 a.m. the subject of the sermon will be "An Abiding Question—What is Man?"

Beginners will be especially welcome at the Sunday school at 12:15 o'clock. It is believed that a far larger attendance would be secured if every United Church family would seek to interest the children in the Sunday school.

Prayer meeting every Wednesday at 7 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Haining of Turner Valley were here to attend the funeral of Bobbie Dewar.

Dysentery Is a Very Dangerous Bowel Complaint

Mrs. E. M. Ward, 627 Ave. H. South, Saskatoon, Sask., writes:—"When my husband was in France he took dysentery, and was in hospital over a year. Ever since he came back he has had the attacks three or four times a year. I cannot emphasize the good of Dr. Fowler's Wild Strawberry has done for him. He generally takes a few doses and gets relief in a few hours."

"I cannot speak too highly of your excellent remedy, and you may be sure we are never without a bottle of it in the house."

The Western Spirit

Are the people of Western Canada losing, or in danger of losing, that fine pioneer spirit which enabled them in the past to tighten their belts and hang on through times of stress and hardship, and that optimism which, looking to the future, could distinguish the silver lining to the cloud which presently loomed above them? Are the people of this generation losing, or have they lost, this spirit and outlook on life which carried their forefathers into the forests of old Ontario and Quebec to hew out homes, and which inspired the men and women of a generation ago to try to the vast prairies of the West, build little shacks and break the virgin soil with a crude plow drawn by oxen?

These questions suggest themselves when we hear of the way in which a considerable number of people are reacting to the existing difficulties confronting them during this period of world-wide depression. Unquestionably many men and women are facing their problems just as courageously as ever, but there does appear to be an increasingly large number who are inclined to throw up their hands and rest content to become objects of charity and governmental assistance. There seems to be a tendency on the part of many to depend solely upon relief supplied by others rather than make a real struggle to provide their own relief from existing difficulties.

Government assistance in times of national emergency, as the Prime Minister of Canada has described the present situation, is necessary. So, too, is assistance that can be provided by churches, charitable organizations and individuals. Some families must have such assistance, and because the need has been created through no fault of their own, they are fully deserving of it. But there are many who can get along without it, or at least with a very minimum of such assistance, but who, because of the organization of relief measures on a large scale, are adopting the attitude that they might just as well get as large a share, a full share, of what is going on.

In cities and towns cases are constantly cropping up of people who could get along without help, but who, lacking pride or even common honesty, have cast themselves on relief measures. The writer has even heard of farmers who, having a small crop, neglected to harvest it because, they argued, they could get more government relief if they had nothing than would be the case if they had even a little of their own.

After all, times like the present call for self-denial, self-sacrifice, courageous effort to make the best of things and get along with as little as possible. Before the Great War people were asking questions somewhat similar to those appearing at the beginning of this article. Had the human race deteriorated? The stamina of the race was demonstrated in the fiery furnace of war, not only by men in the trenches, but by the munition worker, the producers of food, transportation workers, and the great mass of people everywhere and in all walks of life. Practically everybody was willing to assume their share of the burden and make their sacrifice, large or small.

A revival of the same spirit is necessary now. True, there were profiteers, and grafters, and slackers, during the war, but they were regarded with loathing and contempt then, and still are. We want none of them now. What Western Canada needs today in order to successfully tide over the existing depression, and to save the country for the future, is the old spirit which was so long the pride and boast of this country—the courage, the endurance, the optimism of the early pioneers. It was that spirit which made the country what it came to be; it was the same spirit that won the war; it is the same spirit that will save the day now, both in the case of the individuals who display such spirit, and in the country as a whole. Lying down, letting "George do it," trying to get something for nothing, grumbling and fault-finding will not better the situation one whit. It will only make matters worse.

Let us as a people, individually and collectively, stand upright on our own feet and fight our way through. Where there is a will, there's a way. It can be done. It must be done, or we are creating greater problems and piling up still larger difficulties for the future.

Ten Years Of Seed Collecting

British Columbia Has Produced Over Twenty Tons Of Various Species

The establishment for the extraction of forest tree seed which has been maintained at New Westminster, British Columbia, by the Forest Service of the Department of the Interior, has now completed ten years of service, and in that time has produced 40,940 pounds (weight) of seed, and a half ton of seeds of forest trees of various species. Virtually all of this has been sent to the Forestry Commission of Great Britain and the state forest services of New Zealand and Australia. The chief species whose seed has been secured are Sitka (or silver), spruce, western yellow (ponderosa) pine, and Douglas fir.

Gandhi May Visit America

Indian Leader Willing If He Would Not Be Made Ridiculous

Mahatma Gandhi is willing to go to the United States at the conclusion of the round table conference if his friends can convince John Haynes Holmes, New York pastor, that the Mahatma would not be made a laughing stock.

"Holmes tells me my visit would be misunderstood, that I would be exploited, ridiculed and misinterpreted," Gandhi said.

"If others who have invited me can convince Holmes I ought to go to America I shall be glad to reconsider my decision."

"Einstein said his visit was the greatest mistake of his life because most Americans regarded him only as a spectacle. I'm not as sensitive as Einstein but I ought not to go to America unless the American people are willing to listen to my message rather than regard me as a curiosity," Gandhi said.

Coal Imports

Increase Shown In Importation Of Welsh and Scotch Hard Coal

Anthracite coal from the British Isles, imported to Canada through the port of Montreal this season had reached a total of 550,668 tons to the end of September. The figure was 9,373 tons higher than in 1930 to the same date.

Overseas coal and coke receipts for this season are lower than last year by 105,020 tons, due to the embargo on the importation of Russian anthracite. The increase in Welsh and Scotch hard coal has not made up the differences. Last year 148,000 tons of Soviet anthracite was landed here.

MOURNING WARDROBE

"A death occurred in our family and I had to go in mourning. I could hardly afford to buy all black clothes, so decided to dye what I had. I consulted our druggist and he advised using 'Mourning Wardrobe.' Everything came out beautifully: coats, wool dresses, stockings and all. I have since learned to appreciate the excellence of the black Diamond Dyes. I tried another black dye and the results were impossible. I had to get Diamond Dyes and I had to use them. Recently I have tinted my hair and used 'Mourning Wardrobe' and dyed a rug a lovely garnet with Diamond Dyes. They are real money savers. They save money can buy—I truly believe."

New Advertising Idea

As Carried Out By Grocer In Denver, Colorado

The idea is not exactly new but its application is, as far as we know. A Denver, Colorado, grocer, cutting baseball in two, pasted one half on the outside of his shop window and the other half just opposite on the inside. That made the ball look as if it had been driven partly through the glass. A few strokes of black paint, artistically grouped like cracks. Nearby, a placard blared "A Big Hit" carried a list of bargains the store was offering.

Commercial Canning

Fruits and Vegetables Are Canned Under Strict Government Supervision

Commercially canned products, either fruits or vegetables, have an advantage from the technical standpoint of being canned at perfect maturity and within a few hours of harvesting. At one time the canning of fruits and vegetables was almost entirely done in the home; today the modern housewife gets her winter supply of fruits from the products of the up-to-date canning factory.

The pure food laws of Canada provide that canned fruits and vegetables must be sound products made from sterilized, clean, sound, properly matured and prepared fresh fruits or vegetables by means of heat, and kept in suitable, clean containers closed automatically or otherwise, and marked as to conform in name to the particular fruits or vegetables used in their preparation. No adulterated or preserved fruits or vegetables may be used in commercially canned fruits or vegetables. They may contain only pure water, sugar and salt as preservatives.

All canned products manufactured in Canada are produced under the strict supervision of the commercial canning inspection service of the Dominion fruit branch. Under this service four grades for quality are provided, and these are respectively: Fancy, choice, standard and second. The terms used to describe each grade indicate clearly and concisely the nature and character of the product which qualifies for the grade.

No One Escapes Tax

Germany Goes About Collection In Very Thorough Way

The thoroughness with which the German tax of 15 is collected is illustrated by the following incident that occurred at Mannheim Aerodrome, says the Geneva correspondent of the Irish Independent, Dublin.

A German citizen—a woman—was a passenger by air from Holland direct to Switzerland. She had been staying at Amsterdam, and was proceeding right through to Basle. Unfortunately, however, she alighted for a few moments at Mannheim in Germany, and because she had stepped on German soil she was relieved, despite her protests, of 100 marks for leaving Germany."

Trade Opportunities

Good Market In France For Canadian Horses and Cattle

With a little adjusting of conditions here and there, there is every reason why Canada might export between 10,000 and 15,000 horses annually to France, and should also secure a larger share in France's cattle imports, which run to $200,000,000 annually, in the opinion of Michael S. B. of Paris, who deals with livestock in a large way and who has been spending several weeks in Canada as a purchaser.

Natural Resources Will Help Develop Churchill

Needs More Than Wheat Assets

Kenneth E. McArdie
Wheat shipments alone could not make Churchill a real port, in the opinion of Kenneth K. McArdie, managing editor of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, which last month conducted a tour to the new Hudson's Bay ocean port.

"But on the other hand there are vast mineral resources north of The Pas to mile 250, including large marble deposits and limitless water power and I believe that Churchill will definitely come out through the development of the natural resources which lie to the south. Leaders in the western cities are not so enthusiastic as the Churchill scholars as they once were, but they have interested others who are confidently on the defensive in the support of their undertaking and through their work and interest the dream of the west may come true."

Dino Grandi, Foreign Minister, speaking at a meeting of the Rome Rotary Club where Viscount Cecil of Chelwood also spoke, reiterated what he described as Italy's willingness to consider "any proposal, method system, likely to lead to reduction of armaments."

He agreed with Viscount Cecil that "fear and unrest" are the cause of the world's present trouble and that the real remedy is disarmament.

Grandi also proposed an armaments treaty which he made at Geneva, was only the first step, but he expressed confidence that his "moral significance" would contribute toward a revival of international confidence.

Clipping off just over four and a half miles a minute, Pilot Paul Calder, of Canadian Airways, came within an ace of equalling the record set by Captain Frank Hawks, for flying time from Edmonton to Calgary.

Piloting a Fleetster mail plane, Calder travelled the 196 miles from Edmonton to the southern city in 44 minutes. Hawks, the famous American speed pilot, made the distance in 43 minutes, with an international air tour flight in September last year. He was flying his famous super-speed monoplane.

The newspaper Tagblatt said negotiations were underway for the barter of half a million tons of Ruhr coal for a quantity of Brazilian coffee in a manner similar to that in which Brazil recently traded coffee for wheat from the United States.

The Tagblatt suggests that negotiations might be extended to include a trade of coal for Canadian wheat.

Future For Gold Mining

Says Gold Will Be In Demand As Long As Time Lasts

While other metals may be subject to price variations, gold will be in demand "as long as time lasts," said Hon. Charles McCrea, Ontario Minister of Mines, in addressing the Thunder Bay Chamber of Mines and the City Chamber of Commerce at Fort William recently. He said he expected Ontario's gold production this year to value $45,000,000.

Speaking of the northwestern portion of the province, the Minister said that there could be no mineral industry without mines, and he was glad to note that this section was getting mines, such as the Moss, the Honey and the properties now under development by the Conigas and the Homestead. With these as a foundation and the co-operation of the government, he believed that this section would recover its reputation it gained in the '50's and '60's.

Hon. Philip Snowden In Telling Speech Attacks His Former Associates

London, Eng.—There was a time when a Saturday in a British general election campaign would have been regarded by a considerable body of the combatants as a sort of election-eve day of rest; the good people of town and village would merely have discussed the merits of the candidates among themselves in the market places or the ale houses. No such Saturday truce was afforded on this occasion, however.

With the exception of Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald and Rt. Hon. Lloyd George, Liberal leader, who is ill, it was expected that the political celebrities of any complexion who had not at least one speaking appointment. Perhaps the most notable of the week-end addresses as much from the standpoint of style as content, was the radio speech of Rt. Hon. Philip Snowden, retiring Chancellor of the Exchequer.

In his address Mr. Snowden castigated his former political associates with a return of that vehemence of diction which first made his influence felt on the old time Socialist platforms, when he coined such phrases as the "idle rich."

Mr. Snowden attacked the Socialists for their election program. "I hope you have read this program," he said, "it is the most fantastic and impracticable ever put before the electors."

"I have been an advocate for 40 years of sane evolutionary Socialism, but I have always attacked such a revolutionary policy as is set out in this program," he declared. "Well, might Lloyd George say the other evening that there is no likelihood of this country giving such a program a majority."

The answer to Mr. Snowden's scathing sentences came from Walter Citrine, secretary of the trade union congress. In words as scornful as those of his adversary, he said:

"The speech is an extraordinary mixture of fantastic distortions, muddled economics and misrepresentation of fact. One can see the venom and malignity which he bears towards his former colleagues in almost every sentence."

The Sunday Express, Sunday, played up a story, citing alone the authority of its political correspondent, that Mr. Lloyd George will go over to the Labour party as soon as he is able to resume activity in politics. The inference is also conveyed that Mr. Lloyd George's accession to leadership of a new party of Labour would mean the fading out of Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, former Labour secretary of state for foreign affairs, as leader of the Labour party.

In Paris a school has been established to teach the various branches of the motion picture industry from production to distribution, by radio.

Lloyd George Condemns Protection Policy In Speech Over Radio

London, Eng.—From his sick bed in the hills of Sharn, Surrey, Rt. Hon. Lloyd George, Liberal leader, broadcast his views in connection with Great Britain's general election campaign.

It was for him a novel experience. In every general election for the past 41 years he has taken an active part. Now, "out of the turmoil," to use his own expression, he campaigned by microphone. But he left no doubt in the minds of his hearers where he stood.

"This is no time for vague or hesitating talk," he exclaimed, and without hesitation he condemned the policy of protection. The danger of Socialism was remote, he asserted. But protection was an impending peril.

In the choice between "a food-taxing Tory and a Free Trade Labour" candidate, he said, voters would have no hesitation. He would vote to avert the calamity of protection.

"It is a mean suggestion," he said, "that masses of gallant workers who went through the horrors of the war for their country's sake are not truly national unless they are prepared to join the Tory rank and return protectionist members to the House of Commons to impose tolls on bread and meat."

Why should it be imagined, he questioned, that tariffs would lift up the collapsed sovereign? Had tariffs prevented the German mark from dropping out of sight? he asked. In victorious France, the franc had depreciated to one-tenth of its pre-war value.

Death Of Famous Inventor

Thomas A. Edison Passes Away At Home In New Jersey

West Orange, N.J.—Thomas Alva Edison quietly passed away at 24 minutes after 3 a.m., October 18, 1931. (Signed) Dr. Hubert S. Howe.

The news of Mr. Edison's death at the Hilltop estate was flashed by telegraph, cable and wireless to every quarter of the globe.

For more than 50 years Edison conceived ideas and then turned out a device founded upon them. An invention was born in the Edison brain on the average of about one every two weeks, and his registration of more than 1,300 patents at Washington made him the most prolific inventor of his time and perhaps of all time.

First Canadian Entrant In International Show

Saskatchewan Man Heads List For Second Consecutive Year

Chicago, Ill.—First Canadian entrant in the 1931 International Grain and Hay Show at Chicago, is James A. Paur, of Langham, Sask. Distinction for having sent in the first entry from Canada to this competitive crops display went to the same Saskatchewan grower last year.

The International Grain and Hay Show is a department of the International Livestock Exposition, which will be held at the Chicago stockyards, November 28 to December 5. Paur will be an exhibitor in the oats and rye classes of the 1931 show.

Few Remain At Churchill

Northern Port Ready To Spend Last Lonely Winter

Churchill, Man.—This northern point is preparing to spend its last lonely winter. Only a few hundred of the thousands of men who rushed work here to completion this summer remain now, and inside of two weeks only the residents and a few watchmen will remain to guard the buildings here.

All boats have been taken from the harbour and made ready for winter storage. The port will be thrown open next spring to the public.

Season's Work Finished

Ottawa, Ont.—The season's operations of Department of Marine vessels in the Hudson Straits area has been brought to a close and the ice-breaker N. B. McLean has left the straits to take up winter service in the St. Lawrence River. The "Arcadia," carrying the Dominion Government hydrographic survey party, has also sailed for home.

Alberta Has Deficit

Operating Deficit Of $2,306,581 Shown For Last Fiscal Year

Edmonton, Alberta.—An operating deficit of $2,306,581 for the fiscal year ending March 31 last, was announced by the Alberta Government. A summary of the provincial current accounts was given out by Premier Brownlee, showing the results of the government's financial operations for the year. It was pointed out by the premier that it is the first time in a number of years that such a deficit has been reported.

From 1925 to 1930 inclusive the province showed a surplus of revenue over expenditure of $2,491,386, but that the surplus would for this last year be turned into a deficit has long since been a foregone conclusion.

In accounting for the deficit, Premier Brownlee states that two or three items alone, involving approximately $604,000, must be considered as special expenditures not ordinarily looked for in the expenditure of one year. These were: The provincial election of 1930, $160,000; freight charges on seed and relief to drought area, $57,000; and extra grants to schools, $387,000.

President Of Spain Resigns

Trouble Came Over Measures Restricting Religious Orders

Madrid, Spain.—Nicolao Alcala Zamora, who has served as provisional president of Spain since the ousting of King Alfonso XIII, six months ago, has resigned with his cabinet and was succeeded within a few hours by Manuel Azana, his minister of war.

The shift of government resulted from the measures restricting religious orders that have been inculcated by the assembly in the constitution under which republican Spain will be governed, and it was accompanied by spectacular street demonstrations.

Bands of Communists and anti-clericals roamed the streets of Madrid singing the "Red Flag," and shouting "Down with the Catholic Church" and "Death to all Priests." Most intense excitement prevailed as a consequence of the bitter parliamentary fight over the status of the church and ecclesiastical organizations in the new republic.

Ship Gold To Europe

France and U.S. Control Three-Fifths Of World's Supply

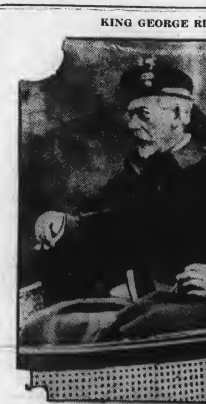

New York.—The torrent of monetary gold which has been flowing from New York into the coffers of Europe was swelled recently by $47,762,400.

This brings the total net loss of gold to approximately $568,000,000 since September 1, most of which was taken in the last four weeks or so since the suspension of the gold standard in Great Britain.

While latest official figures are several days old, it is now estimated in Wall Street that the monetary gold stock in this country is close to $4,500,000,000, and that France's has increased to nearly $2,500,000,000. The two countries control roughly three-fifths of the world's entire supply.

Work For Unemployed

Winnipeg, Man.—Employment of 1,000 unemployed men from Winnipeg on the Ontario section of the Trans-Canada Highway between Kenora and the Head of the Lakes is under discussion between the Ontario and Manitoba Governments, and Hon. G. D. Robertson, Federal Minister of Labour. Under the proposed arrangement Manitoba would contribute towards the wages of workers taken from this province.

King George and Prince George are shown in their carriage as they were driven from the royal residence at Edinburgh, Scotland, to the ancient Crathie Abbey in Aberdeenshire to attend the services. The King visits Scotland each year and spends several weeks at his castle in the Scottish hills.

No Coalition

Premier Brownlee Opposes Move For Union Government For Alberta

Edmonton, Alberta.—Premier J. E. Brownlee, Friday, October 16, answered the demand for a special session of the legislature and the suggestion that a union government be established in Alberta because of present economic conditions.

When the next legislature will convene depends on the result of financial investigations now being made by the government, along with a group of civil servants, he said, and the suggestion for a union government he answered by asking what a union government could accomplish that the province could not do.

W. M. Davidson, pioneer Alberta editor, made the suggestion for a union government. "If non-party governments are good and desirable institutions in time of stress and strain, why not always," asked Premier Brownlee when informed of Mr. Davidson's suggestion. "If the party government system is not qualified to handle emergencies, how can it be such a good thing for ordinary times?"

Premier Bennett Honored

McGill University Confers Degree Of Doctor Of Laws

Montreal, Que.—Intermingling pomp and dignity with a colourful display of warmth of welcome, McGill University conferred upon Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett the degree of doctor of laws. And then as a climax the large audience attending the special convocation marking the opening of a three days' reunion, heard the Prime Minister in an address permeated with confidence in Canada.

"Let us be confident," Premier Bennett declared after remarking that the world's troubles might not be over but Canada's would be over, the corner Canadians marched fearlessly to meet them. "Let us be bold and put to shame those who in their assumed wisdom forecast unending trouble and in the greed that springs from fear prefer themselves and their own interests and exploitations to the welfare of Canada as a whole."

Ottawa, Ont.—Construction of sidewalks along all highways in the province as a means of cutting down the accident toll was recommended by jury foreman Mr. Justice McEvoy at the fall assizes Wednesday, October 14.

Anti-Dumping Tariff Displeasing To Italy

Newspaper States Canada's Action Regarding Imports Is Unfair

Rome, Italy.—Displeasure in Italy at the decision of the Canadian Government to apply anti-dumping tariff provisions against imports from countries whose currency has depreciated on foreign exchange markets was reflected in an editorial appearing in Giornale D'I Italia.

It is unfair, the newspaper said, to apply anti-dumping provisions against Italian imports, as the lira still remains on the gold standard, and any oscillation in its rate of exchange will be of short duration.

Reinforcing its argument with statistics the newspaper said that during the last three years the value of Canadian goods imported by Italy had been greatly in excess of the value of Italian merchandise imported into Canada.

Believes Canada Will Drop Gold Standard

But Not As Permanent Measure Says Dr. Swanson

Saskatoon, Sask.—Dr. W. W. Swanson, who accompanied Premier Bennett last year when he attended the Imperial Conference, is of the belief that it will not be long before Canada follows the example of Great Britain, and drops the gold standard.

Addressing the members of the Kiwanis Club here, on the subject of "Currency and International Finance," he stated that this step would not be permanent but that eventually the Dominion would return to the gold standard. He regarded financiers of the United States as only amateurs when compared with those who have controlled British finance, and declared that the pound sterling is of far more concern to Canada than is the United States dollar.

Likely To Follow Pound

Toronto, Ont.—There is a growing feeling among a number of prominent people that a large portion of the world will be disposed to follow the pound instead of the dollar, said A. E. Phillips, General Manager of the Imperial Bank. Mr. Phillips returned to Toronto recently from a holiday in Great Britain.

League Of Nations To Take Action To Prevent War In East

Geneva.—The Council of the League of Nations overruled Japanese opposition by voting 13 to 1 to invite the United States to participate in its discussion of measures to bring peace between Japan and China in Manchuria.

Surprised that the council's action ventured hope that the league would be able to bring about a pacific settlement of the Manchurian controversy.

"We are still lively members of the league and have been from the first," Kenkichi Yoshizawa, Japan's spokesman, told questioners at the end of the long secret session at which the position maintained so persistently by him and the Tokyo Government was emphatically overruled. Aristide Briand, chairman of the council and French foreign minister, and his colleagues argue long and ardently with M. Yoshizawa.

The feeling that not only war in the far east but also the very life of the league was at stake had been growing, and each hour of delay increased fear on the part of league proponents that the institution might show weakness in a vital test. The result, therefore, was welcomed with gratification and relief in international circles which regarded the council's determination to override Japanese opposition as their eagerly desired token of vitality.

Persons present at the council's secret session reported the procedure was conducted in this manner:

M. Briand began by reading the form of invitation which already had been drafted. M. Yoshizawa read the written objections. The matter raised serious constitutional questions, the Japanese spokesman said. It contended it was much more than a question of procedure (on which only a majority council vote is required), but was indeed a question of substance (which requires unanimity).

Winnipeg, Man.—No decision has been reached by the Government of Manitoba to hold an election this fall, Premier John Bracken told government members of the legislature in an address in which he made no brief mention of reports that an election would be called late in November.

"The public should not let itself get excited about election rumors," the premier advised. "There has been no decision to hold an election. When we decide an election should be held we will notify you five weeks before its date, as provided by law."

Charges that Col. F. G. Taylor Provincial Conservative leader, had thrown an expenditure burden of $500,000 on Manitoba by his refusal to enter a proposed union government and "endangered the province's credit" by his criticism of the Government's financial condition were laid by Premier Bracken in a fighting speech.

"The next session of the legislature would have lasted three weeks instead of three months if the other parties had co-operated, and we could have gone to work with a non-party administration that would have saved the province the cost of hundreds of thousands of dollars," he declared.

Col. Taylor had answered "No" to the union government proposal Mr. Bracken said. Only the Liberal leader was willing to co-operate. The Labour leaders would have considered the offer the cost of all that social service expenditures were either maintained or increased.

Reduced Rail Fares

Teachers and Students To Obtain Special Rates For Yuletide Holidays

Montreal, Que.—Reduced railway fares for teachers and students at schools and colleges far from home will be put in effect for Christmas, New Year and Easter holidays by the railways of Canada, it was announced here by the Canadian Passenger Association.

The round trip fares will be reduced to one and a quarter times the single fare, it was announced. Dates of the sale of such tickets will be governed by holiday dates at the schools and colleges throughout the country.

A certificate signed by the director or headmaster of the school or college will be necessary to secure the reduced fare.

But Was Indeed a Question of Substance (Which Requires Unanimity)

M. Briand and Lord Reading, British foreign secretary, held no question of substance was involved. A long debate resulted between M. Yoshizawa on one side and all the other members, except Dr. Alfred Siz, Chinese spokesman, on the other. Dr. Siz remained silent throughout.

British and French representatives declared Japan's position to be invalid on two grounds:

The council was not deciding, they said, on something new, the Japanese and Chinese agreed three weeks ago to welcome close co-operation on the part of the United States; so the council was merely inviting this co-operation on the spot.

The second point made by these spokesmen was that the council was not, as Japan contended, asking a non-league to sit at its table, but was simply beckoning to a man already in the audience to come to that table.

At the end, M. Yoshizawa suggested that the council constitute a committee of jurists to study the juridical aspects of the problem and report Friday, October 16. Asked if he were ready to abide by the jurists' recommendation, the Japanese representative replied he could not answer that. A vote was taken on his proposal and only Gerard Von Mutius, German delegate, sided with him.

M. Briand declared a committee of jurists would only make the situation worse. A vote was then taken on the proposal to invite the United States. M. Briand asking those opposing it to raise their hands. No hand went up but after a moment M. Yoshizawa announced that he was in opposition.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

A notable figure in the world of invention and science passed on in the person of Thomas A. Edison. The many inventions of his wonderfully fertile brain will remain as monuments of his service to mankind. Every invention was for a useful purpose. Truly might it be said without any reservation that he was a genius. The world owes a great deal to a man who so used and developed his remarkable brain power that he made life easier and pleasant for millions in all walks of life.

There are many things in life which help to make us happy. Too prone are many people to dwell on the darker things of this interesting life. Some have more than an ordinary share of reverses. But, isn't it a fact there are many things we should feel thankful for? Health and the ability to work is an asset which money cannot purchase. The determination to capitalize this priceless asset by setting aside part of each day to perform a useful task will keep people sufficiently engaged in helpful thoughts and a happy frame of mind so that darker shadows will be dispelled.

Complaint is made by a correspondent in the Calgary Herald that the provincial government has delayed paying fire-fighters. The fire was extinguished by a snowfall on September 3rd. On October 20th men were still waiting for their cheques. The delay is occasioned by the complex details under which government money is paid out. Not only fire-fighters, but all others who do business with the government, have to endure the waiting. Men who really need the money find the delay very vexatious, and there is ground for their complaints. The local forestry officials are in no way to blame, but have to stand the brunt of the criticism. On one point the letter was wrong. Comparing the rate paid in British Columbia as 25c and Alberta 15c an hour, it might be pointed out that in B. C. a dollar a day was deducted for board. But this is no defence of the methods by which payment for work done is so long deferred.

Fuel oil for locomotives is a keen competitive factor against coal. Despite efforts made to develop the coal industry there are always factors pulling it down. The Canadian Pacific Railway is a big user of coal, and at the same time ships in fuel oil from California to burn on some of its mountain locomotives. The Alberta coal industry in order to increase eastern markets is given a subvention of freight rates to help against American competition. If things do begin to work smoothly in the coal fields, and a fair volume of work is assured, the chances are a strike is precipitated. Well might coal operators express the phrase, "Life is just one darned thing after another." The market for western coal is a continual battle ground, and there is no respite from the encroachments of oil, water power and foreign competition.

A six-hour working day, with four shifts keeping machines working continuously, has not only kept up the standard of wages in an American manufacturing plant, but has reduced the overhead expense of placing its product on the market. The maximum of value being derived from the plant investment, it naturally follows that overhead is proportionately less on each unit manufactured than under the former system whereby three shifts of workers were employed. The six hour shift takes no time for lunches; the workers are able to produce equally as much in six hours as in eight by more energetic work, for they are more enthusiastic, and more people are employed.

There is no doubt most people, if they timed themselves, would find that in six hours of concentrated effort to produce the maximum results, they would accomplish more than in the usual eight-hour day. It isn't the length of hours that is the most important factor; it is how you make the time count. Try the plan in your own office; or if you work in your own home on domestic duties, plan your daily duties on a real schedule, stick to it and see how much quicker it will be completed than by following a haphazard method. In addition, you'll enjoy your leisure time more fully.

Armistice Day will be proclaimed a public holiday throughout the Dominion. This has been advocated by war veterans' associations for years, and by many who were bereaved. It is not to glorify war or to keep alive its spirit of hate; but to honor the memory of the Empire's countless dead. Naturally it calls to the mind of the soldier many tragic incidents, interspersed with memories of a more pleasant nature which he will treasure throughout life. He cursed the war while he was engaged in it, and suffered the discomfort of trench mud and vermin. And he experienced the delights of leave in Paris or London, which was as comparable as is heaven and hell. The man who came through has cause to remember it as the really big adventure of life. Many a bereaved parent will recall the last farewell of a brave and gallant lad. Remembrance Day, on the 11th of November, marking the thirteenth anniversary of the signing of the Armistice which terminated the world war, will recall many a familiar face now resting among the poppies. Buy a poppy for remembrance!

A CARD OF THANKS

Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Dewar desire to thank their many friends for expressions of sympathy in their bereavement, and those who were so kind during the long illness of their son Bobbie. To Dr. Borden for unfailing care, the matron of the hospital, Mrs. Woods, and staff, thanks is expressed, and to all who sent flowers, or loaned cars for the funeral.

Testator Must See Witnesses Sign Will, Appellate Court Rules

(Calgary Herald)

Whether the will executed by a dying man, too feeble to watch the witnesses sign their names to the document, is valid in law, was decided in a judgment handed down by Mr. Justice McGillivray of the appellate division of the Supreme Court of Alberta, Friday morning. Last April, John Wozzechowicz, aged foreigner, residing at Coleman, signed a will on his death bed. He had to be lifted from the bed and he was too near death to watch witnesses as they signed the will. All of his estate was left to his nephew, George Wozzechowicz.

Proof of the will was made to the satisfaction of the trial judge and he gave judgment accordingly. An appeal from that judgment was carried to the Appellate Court by George Hope, who claimed to be a beneficiary under a previous will.

"In my view it is immaterial whether the witnesses were or were not in the same room as the testator," Mr. Justice McGillivray ruled. "The question is whether the testator by looking could have seen the witnesses sign."

His Lordship pointed to a similar case in which the argument was made that "you cannot be a witness to an act you are unperceptive of."

Accordingly, His Lordship disallowed the will and found in favor of Hope, the appellant. His view was concurred in by the other appeal judges.

J. D. Matheson, K.C., acted for Hope, the successful appellant, and D. McKenzie, K.C., for the nephew.

Fundamental Facts In Reference To The Gold Standard And Its Effect On International Trade

(By H. G. L. Strange, Director, Research Department, Searle Grain Company, Limited, Winnipeg)

The expressions "Inflation," "Deflation," "Rates of Exchange," "On the Gold Standard," "Off the Gold Standard," have been much written and talked about during the past few weeks, and inasmuch as expert economists and financiers do not all agree as to the respective benefits or defects of these economic policies, the plain person may be pardoned for being somewhat bewildered by it all.

Perhaps, however, a simple review of some of the fundamental facts upon which the majority of experts seem to agree may be of help at this time.

Countries officially on the gold standard are prepared to pay their debts when due and demanded and to redeem their bonds, notes and bills in actual gold, if required. Countries not officially on the gold standard, usually in order to preserve, behind their bonds, notes and bills, a certain minimum amount of tangible gold security, do not guarantee always to pay their debts at once in tangible gold, although in practice actually they may always do so. (This, without, is exactly the position in which Great Britain finds herself at this moment).

The quoted exchange value of a country's currency, i.e. the pound, the dollar, the franc, the mark, etc., whether that country is on or off the gold standard, is based upon the opinion of the world at large as to the value of that country's currency, or credit, in terms of gold.

The real value of any country's exchange does not always depend as to whether that country is on or off the gold standard, but certainly does depend in the main upon the credit of that country or in the faith that the world at large has that the particular country will always pay its debts, in full, exactly when due, and in some medium of exchange that is acceptable to both parties, or as a last resort in gold.

Naturally the knowledge that a certain country has a large amount of gold in reserve in good tangible evidence of ability to pay, hence of good credit.

That a country balances its budget each year is also evidence that war-rates fail. That a country is trading at a profit is also evidence that it has funds to invest, and that a country is year by year not spending more than it can afford, or that country has valuable potential resources that can be developed to bring in cash, are all reasons for faith in that country and are reasons that will inevitably result in a high exchange value of that country's currency, whether it is on or off the gold standard.

In the long run the real price of wheat or any other commodity, and its purchasing value in relation to all other commodities, will depend but very little upon the rates of exchange, or upon whether countries are on or off the gold standard, but will in the main depend upon the relationship of the supply and the demand of wheat or any other commodity, and will further depend also in no small measure upon the purchasing power of those persons who need the commodity wherever they may reside, and the purchasing power of these persons must depend in the long run upon whether somewhere in this world, they can sell the products of their own hands or brains at a profit. If they can do this they are eager buyers of wheat and all commodities and are willing to pay a fair price because they can afford it. If, however, they are unable to sell the products of their own hands or brains, then naturally they will have but little with which to purchase any commodities, and will only be able to afford those that are offered at a cheap price.

Eskimo Needs Wife With Good Teeth

Chief Occupation Seems To Be Chewing Husband's Wardrobe

Eskimo wives are not selected so much for beauty of face, or form, or the charms of mentality, but rather with special reference to the quality of their teeth and their skill as tailors, says H. W. Porter, on his return to Nova Scotia from the Arctic.

Clothes are practically as important as food, and good teeth are the first requisite of good tailoring. The skins are first scraped, stretched out on the snow to dry, and then—this is where the teeth come in—they are chewed and worked up until they are soft. This must be done before they are fashioned into trousers or boots so that the needle, with its thread of caribou tendon can pass through.

Needles made of bone were at one time used, but of late these have given way to the regular steel needles which are now procured at the trading posts.

The need of good teeth is still necessary after the clothes are made, for the first act of the man returning to his family igloo is to remove his wet skin clothing. This is promptly hung up by his wife. In the process of drying it becomes almost as stiff as wood, so before her husband arises, the wife chews his mocassins into such a condition of pliability as will permit of further use. In fact the Eskimo woman appears to spend the greater part of her time chewing the skins of her husband, and it is not unusual for the woman to get together and chew the skin almost the same as women in this country used to crochet.

It is obvious that the bachelor labours under a great handicap, and as males are considerably in excess there is a heavy demand for wives.

Credit For Drought Areas

Must Establish Credit Through Application To Relief Officer

Farmers in the drought areas of Saskatchewan needing food must establish their credit through application to the relief officer, according to instructions recently issued by the Saskatchewan Department of Agriculture to municipal officials.

The application will then be submitted to the relief commission. Distribution of the feed by the rural municipal authorities will then be made in amounts not to exceed three tons of hay or other fodder per head of horses or cattle, less his supply on hand.

Orders will not be received direct by the Department of Agriculture. Under the new regulations, the department will continue to purchase fodder for rural municipalities, but the latter must no longer contract for fodder or feed grain or pay for same except as they may have contracts uncompleted. In such cases they may arrange for funds for the purpose through the Department of Municipal Affairs.

Could Not Be Shelled

After receiving a petition "11 miles long" against the proposed bill granting Sunday movies, the English Government has decided not to push the measure in Parliament.

A total of 47,779 tons of German antiracine has been imported this season. British bituminous imports have reached 19,883, a reduction from last year of 13,662 tons.

Settlers Far North

See Visions Of Great Farming Community North Of 53rd Parallel

Visions of a great farming community north of the 53rd parallel, are seen in the north as dozens of applications to take up agricultural land in various parts of the north have been made this summer to the lands branch in Winnipeg.

With many settlers already established in four or five separate sections of northern Manitoba, there is a growing trend among citizens of northern towns to go on the land, and many from points in Saskatchewan and central Manitoba are turning their eyes northward.

Men acquainted with the situation state that many settlers as well as new applicants are handicapped on account of lack of capital. Those already settled on farms in The Pas area and along the Hudson Bay Railway have engaged to a great extent in truck farming, while a number are turning to dairying and poultry raising, the trend is towards mixed farming.

Abundant Crops For Next Year Predicted

Precipitation Figures Show Guarantee Of Sufficient Moisture For 1932

Prediction that there would be abundant crops throughout western Canada next year, was made by Robert Henderson, mortgage corporation inspector, on his return to Toronto from a two months' tour of the west.

Conditions both on the farms and in the cities were not as black as they had been painted, he said. Certain definite areas in southern Saskatchewan and Alberta were experiencing difficulties, but he cited tax and bumper crop figures in the northern parts of the prairies as indications that things were not as bad as they appeared.

He based his prediction of the crop next year on rainfall statistics for the past few months. Precipitation figures for the past three months, he declared, provided a guarantee of sufficient moisture for 1932.

Trade Through Churchill

Bright Future Is Predicted For Western Canada's Seaport

That eventual flow of the main current of trade from central Canada to the east, will probably go over the Hudson Bay route through Churchill in future years, is the opinion of Lloyd Roberts, of Ottawa, son of Dr. Charles G. D. Roberts, eminent Canadian author and poet, who, with his father, was a recent visitor to northern Manitoba. Mr. Roberts stated that while on his visit to the new port he had been informed on good authority that $3,000 was saved in sending the recent test shipment of grain to Churchill from the west, as compared with transporting to Fort William.

Mr. Roberts, a well-known Canadian journalist and, like his father, a writer of prose and poetry, has for six years been a member of the press gallery at Ottawa.

The Favourite Apple

Survey Shows "Mcintosh" Leads With "Spys" Second Choice

"Apples are apples," but not when you know them. In a recent survey the Fruit Branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture secured some interesting information on this subject. The Dominion favourite is McIntosh, the survey shows. Then in order come the Spy, Gravenstein, the Delicious and the Baldwin. By provinces Ontario prefers its "Spy"; Nova Scotia and New Brunswick their "Gravenstein"; while Quebec, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia all vote "Mcintosh" first. Other popular varieties are Greening, Snow, Fameuse, Duchesne, Winesap, Bow Sweet, Wagener, Jonathan, and Wealthy.

Canada Has An Immense And An Unconquerable Belief In Herself, Declares Premier Bennett

Has Success With Peanuts

Ukrainian Farmer In Ontario Praised As Ape This Year

The Simcoe, Ontario, Reformer, says: Norfolk grows cotton and tobacco!

Also peanuts!

Not just a small garden patch of peanuts, but a whole field of them. On the outskirts of the village of Waterford lives one, Sammy Zarluk, Ukrainian by birth, who has successfully raised and harvested an acre or more of peanuts.

Sammy owns ten acres of land and grows a variety of crops, but these peanuts are his special pride and care.

It was rather a strange thing how he got the idea about growing peanuts.

One day he was in the city of Hamilton and from a street corner vendor bought a five-cent bag of peanuts. He opened one or two of them and found the nuts in their natural raw and unroasted condition. Not caring for peanuts of this kind, he took them along home. Next day he thought of planting the peanuts in a flower pot which he did.

The peanuts grew up, produced flourishing plants and multiplied.

That was four years ago. The next year Sammy put a few out in the garden where they seemed to grow equally well. Another year passed and he had quite a patch. There were much a great quantity of peanuts but sufficient to appease the appetite of his young boys.

Without the slightest knowledge of the science of growing peanuts or of soil and climatic requirements he planted over an acre to peanuts last spring. The soil is a fairly light sandy loam, and the land has a gradual slope. The plants did well from the outset and were as husky looking as a field of potatoes. The plant is not as tall as a potato plant, however, and more resembles the vine of a bean plant. The peanuts cluster thickly about the roots of the plant.

Plea For Jobless Women

Have Same Right To Be Looked After As The Men

Have the governments of British Columbia or of Canada done anything constructive to provide for unemployed women? What have they done?

Most women marry to get employment? Whom will they marry—unemployed men? Supporting for example a girl or woman is alone in Vancouver, with no relatives and no work—what can she do about it? Can she go to the Government, as men do, and get a job? Why can't she? Is there a "double standard" in unemployment relief?

Have women any voice in these unemployment programmes? Why haven't they? If women had a share in it, would they have dickered and negotiated and stalled for months and done nothing?

Every day girls and women, with throbbing pulses and moist eyes, are besieging offices and stores and factories; they cannot get a job; they have no money. Vancouver has nearly 700 women on the lists for unemployment relief, and other cities have similar figures. Must they remain idle because their country, one of the world's greatest, has not the ingenuity or the initiative to plan work for them?

Runs Into Millions

A contemporary points out that while home-grown tomatoes are to be seen everywhere at present, "a few months from now we shall be importing them, as usual, from Bermuda." It is interesting to find that Canada imports fresh tomatoes to the extent of about $1,000,000 per year, but in the past these have come chiefly from the United States (more than two-thirds of the total) with Mexico second and Bermuda a poor third.

In highly optimistic and ringing tones, Premier R. B. Bennett emphasized Canada's unconquerable belief in herself, declared the opening of the new home of the Canadian Club of New York, recently.

"Canada has an immense, an unconquerable belief in herself," Mr. Bennett declared, and with his remarks wheeler-dealer applause broke forth from his audience. "We have the faith that accepts good times as our natural due and bad times as only an interlude between past prosperity and the greater prosperity that is to come. I suppose we were born that way, and all the forces of world distress are powerless to change us. That does not mean that Canadians are vainglorious, reckless or prodigal, for they are not."

"In any kind of life thrift and economies are virtues, in our pioneering lives, they are veritable necessities. Nor does it mean that Canadians are vainglorious, reckless or prodigal, for they are not."

The Prime Minister faced distinguished fellow-Canadians prominent in the professional and business life of the United States.

"I am not here to discuss the state of affairs in Canada," Premier Bennett stated. "But for the purpose, the very happy purpose of meeting old friends whom the turn of events which carry us hither and thither, has too long separated from me."

"Our trade reports, our bank statements, our revenues, our expenditures are published and made available to all. They tell the story of our progress in these troubled times; that, and the fact that our great institutions built upon the foundations we long ago determined to be sound, and unshaken in this economic convulsion which has rocked the world."

"You all know that and the reason as well why, though we have problems, though we have unemployment, though nature this year has been unkind to our western wheat areas, our problems are less acute than those of other countries; our unemployment situation while serious is controllable, and the major calamity in our west is one from which we can forecast an early recovery."

Insurance Companies In U.S. Bar Prohibition Agents

Maybe you didn't know it, but being a prohibition agent is just as dangerous as being an acrobat or a stunt man.

"R.N.A." it is explained, means "risk not accepted."

Canada Is Entertaining Distinguished Visitors

Several Outstanding Men To Spend Some Time Here

Men and women who have achieved distinction in widely different walks of life were greeted at Quebec when they disembarked from the Canadian Pacific liner "Empress of Britain." Heading the passenger list were Lord Trenchard, newly appointed to head the Metropolitan Police of London, England; Rafael Sabatini, author; Lord Rothermere, publisher; Hon. E. B. Ryckman, Canadian Minister of National Revenue; Hon. Raoul Dandurand, former president of the council of the League of Nations; Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, former speaker of the Canadian House of Commons, and Viscount and Lady Ebrington.

Lord Ebrington is to judge at the horse show held in connection with the Royal Winter Fair at Toronto. Prior to the fair he and Lady Ebrington will cross Canada to Victoria, B.C.

Lord Trenchard is to visit Kitchen, Ont., to extend to the Canadian Scots Fusiliers the greetings of the Scots Fusiliers, of which regiment he is Colonel.

Senator Dandurand is returning from a meeting of the League of Nations. Lord Rothermere told ship's reporters he was back in Canada to see pulp and paper manufacturers.

PUMPKIN PRESERVES

Remove the rind and seeds from a small pumpkin and cut the flesh in cubes. Cook in a small amount of water until tender. Drain and weigh. For each pound of pumpkin allow 1 pound of sugar, 2 lemons and 2 ounces of ginger root. Slice the lemons and soak with the ginger over night in cold water. Next morning cook in same water until the liquid is tender. Add the sugar and the pumpkin, and simmer until the pumpkin is transparent. Drain and pack in jars. Cook syrup until it is thick and pour over the fruit in the jars. Seal tightly.

BEEF RELISH

1 quart beefs, sliced.
1 medium-sized white onion.
2 red peppers.
2 teaspoons salt.
1/2 cup ground horse-radish.
1 pint vinegar.
1/2 cup sugar.
Cook the beefs until they are tender and the skins slip off easily. Cut or chop the beefs, onion, and peppers. Combine the ingredients. Cook the mixture until it is clear. Seal it in clean, hot jars.

Cattle Reach Paris

Is First Consignment Canada Has Shipped To France

There recently arrived in Paris the first consignment of Canadian cattle ever shipped to France. The shipment consists of 172 head worth 500,000 francs. All were in excellent health and there was not a single casualty in the crossing.

This will be followed by a second consignment shortly. Moreover, French agents will shortly proceed to Canada to purchase lean heifers and steers to replace France's greatly depleted herds. France can assimilate regular weekly shipments of Canadian cattle for fattening.

Owing to veterinary regulations, Canada and Switzerland are the only two countries allowed to export cattle to France, and Switzerland has no exportable surplus.

Jurisdiction Extended

High Commissioner For Canada Now Controls All Departments

Jurisdiction over all departments of the Dominion Government in the United Kingdom will be exercised by Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, High Commissioner for Canada in Great Britain. An order-in-council passed when Hon. P. C. Larkin was High Commissioner, and which gave to Mr. Larkin additional jurisdiction, has been extended so as to apply to Mr. Ferguson. As things now stand the Canadian High Commissioner in London, England, will have supervision and control over officials of the Immigration, Trade and Commerce, Agriculture, and any other Government departments in the United Kingdom.

Windbreak Necessary

Plums, cherries, and the harder varieties of apples have been successfully grown on the Canadian prairies, but the orchards in all cases were protected by a suitable windbreak.

An historic entry among the steamship arrivals reads: "At Liverpool from north from Churchill Manitoba."

Here's a lovely model in printed crepe, so smart and easy to wear. The bodice cuts all in one until it joins the skirt flounce, which makes it especially simple for home sewing.

Another idea for this easily made model, that will make it appear entirely different, is to make it sleeveless with the cape collar as shown in miniature view.

Dainty chiffon print, eyelid batiste and pastel silk make up most attractively with the cape collar. Then again for active sports, you can make it with the short sleeves without the capelet. Choose cotton, mesh, pique or linen.
Style No. 2922 may be had in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. Size 36 requires 3 1/2 yards of 36-inch material with 3/4 yard of 32-inch contrasting.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

OCTOBER 25

PAUL IN CORINTH

Golden Text: "Now abideth faith, hope, love, these three; and the greatest of these is love."—1 Corinthians 13:13.

Lesson: Acts 18:1-17; 1 Corinthians 13:1-8, 13.

Devotional Reading: 1 Corinthians 13:1-8, 13.

Explanations and Comments

Paul the Tentmaker, verses 1-3.—Last week we left Paul at Berea. From there he went to the province of Achaia, and, following what must have been a very disappointing experience in Athens, came to Corinth.

Here at Corinth Paul's ministry lasted eighteen months. He worked at his trade of tentmaker by day and preached at night. Just what Paul's trade was is a matter of doubt. Luther translated the word "carpet manufacturer." Chrysostom described Paul as standing in his workshop and stitching bits of leather together with his hands. It is generally thought that he made tentcloth from the hair of goats which was called Cilician cloth from the fact that it was made in Cilicia, which was Tarsus, Paul's native home.

Turning to Jews and Greeks, verses 4, 5. In spite of many discouragements and of physical weakness (1 Corinthians 2:25), the lonely missionary "reasoned" in the synagogue every Sabbath, seeking to persuade Jews and Greeks to accept his teaching. The "Greeks" were proselytes in the synagogue, as the distinction of verse six shows.

The effect upon Paul of the coming of Silas and Timothy, who had remained in Macedonia, was electric, encouraged by their presence, his spirits revived and his whole activity became more intense. Paul was a social soul. He worked best in harness with others.

Turning To The Gentiles, verses 6-7.—The Jews opposed Paul and blasphemed. As Matthew Henry says, they "did not stand against Paul's words, but what they wanted in reason they made up in language. Paul then decisively turned to his efforts to the Gentiles.

Paul Encouraged, verses 8-11.—Despite his trials, the noted Jew, Crispus, the ruler of the synagogue, and all his household believed, and many other Corinthians believed and were baptized. Paul baptized Crispus with his own hands. 1 Corinthians 1:14. "The contingency of the new meeting house for the Christians and the synagogue were not only fruits of his winning converts but also in raising disputes. The conversion of an important person like Crispus led to increased opposition by the synagogue. It may have grown so bitter that Paul began to question whether he ought not to move on again." Then came the word of the Lord to him in a vision which encouraged him. "Be not afraid, but speak and hold not thy peace; for I am with thee, and no man shall be able to harm thee; for I have much people in this city."

Existence Is Justified

Farm Schools Have Their Place In Educational System

The registration at colleges this fall is larger than ever, despite the depression in business. This increase in number of young men seeking an education is seen at the Ontario Agricultural College, and will doubtless be evident at the schools of agriculture as they open. With hard times experienced by almost everybody, the expenditure for college training is apparently regarded not as a luxury but as an investment that will bring full returns in later years.

When the Alberta Government decided that in the interests of economy one of the agricultural schools should be closed this year a storm of protest was heard. These schools have justified their existence and have had a wide influence as rallying centers for young men and women from the farms. Recently when Hon. Robert W. Stewart, Minister of Agriculture, took occasion to state that it was part of his policy to establish schools in connection with a number of the experimental farms, and that one of these would be located at Lethbridge. Each school will accommodate not more than fifty students, which will ensure that individual attention be given and that practical experience be obtained in the fields.

Observation of the work done by the schools of this type that are already operating confirms the impression that they are best suited to the needs of young people who are to return to the farm. They have even a wider field of influence than the larger colleges which provide courses equivalent to university standards. There need be no rivalry between the academic and the practical institutions for each supplements the other.

"Mules."

Statistical studies in Illinois indicate that women live, on the average, two years longer than men, yet women have more physical defects and get sick oftener.

Note Of Confidence In Canadian Agriculture Is Sounded

A welcome and refreshing tone of confidence in Canadian agricultural conditions is sounded in the announcement by the management of the Royal Winter Fair that "prospects for entries at the Royal in all departments were never better than at the present moment."

"Exhibitors in the western Provinces are most anxious to continue to display their live stock and other agricultural products," the Royal's statement goes on, "and the Dominion Government and the Provincial Governments recognizing the advantages of the Provinces continuing to occupy a prominent position at the Royal are contributing their usual financial assistance in transportation and in the selection of the live stock and agricultural products."

"There has been more than the usual number of inquiries from United States points this year and the Royal's survey of Ontario and Quebec indicates that there is considerably more live stock than usual ready for exhibition, so that we are better satisfied that the Winter Fair will open with the best and most representative live stock displays which we have ever had."

"Although general conditions last November were anything but favourable, 1930 was the Royal's record year, not only in exhibits and attendance, but the spirit of the people at the show was happier than at any previous event. We feel sure that the spirit of optimism at that time has served a very useful purpose in that it has enabled Canadians better to view recent economic adjustments with equanimity. We believe that a similar result will be secured at the forthcoming Royal Winter Fair, and be more noticeable perhaps on account of the greater contrast in conditions."

"The Royal this year is designed to commemorate its founding and inauguration ten years ago, when in the depression that followed the war it helped so signally to restore confidence to Dominion agriculture generally. Since its 'birthday' at that time it has established itself as an institution to which Canadians all over Canada have pointed with a very considerable pride."

"The Royal is entering upon its new cycle under conditions which permit it to perform a service to Canada in influencing the general outlook and state of mind of the Canadian people, apart altogether from its influence upon agriculture. The aim of the management is that everyone who visits the Royal and everyone who exhibits there shall be better equipped to meet whatever problems may cross their path in the immediate future."

Air May Replace Gasoline

Car Without Usual Engine Equipment Demonstrated By Inventor

Roy J. Meyers, inventor, predicts motorists soon may refill their tanks with air instead of gasoline. Meyers demonstrated an automobile with a six cylinder radial type engine, minus the usual carburetor and ignition and cooling systems, but equipped with a compressed air tank filled to 500 pounds pressure.

He pulled a lever and the car picked up speed quickly and smoothly, with a slight hiss of air from the exhaust valves. The motor was geared so the maximum speed reached was 35 miles per hour, but Meyers said that, with a gear shift and a higher powered engine, speeds equal to or higher than those of gasoline driven cars may be attained.

As the air goes through the engine, forcing pistons up and down, which is it recaptured and recompressed. The cooled air returns to the pressure tank, which is heated by electricity from batteries and a generator.

This heating, he explained, expands the air in the tank, increasing the pressure. He did not make clear how many pounds of air would be required per mile.

He made no answer, but released her instantly, and in her anxiety to show him how well she could manage she hurried on, struck the tip of the skate she was still wearing against a little hummock of frozen snow, and all but fell. He caught her as she stumbled.

"I think," he remarked drily, "you would do well to sacrifice your independence till your feet are on more equal terms with one another."

Jean laughed ruefully.

"I think I should," she agreed meekly.

He led her to where the prone trunk of a tree offered a seat of sorts, then went in search of the missing skate. Returning in a few moments, he knelt beside her and fastened it on—securely this time—to the slender foot she extended towards him.

"You're much too incompetent to be out on the ice alone," he remarked as he buckled the last strap.

A faint flush of annoyance rose in Jean's cheeks at the uncompromising frankness of the observation.

"What are your friends thinking of to let you do such a thing?" he pursued, blandly ignoring her mute indignation.

"I have no friends here. I am—my own mistress," she replied tartly.

He was still kneeling in the snow in front of her. Now he sat back on his heels and subjected her face to a sharp, swift scrutiny. Almost, she thought, she detected a sudden veiled suspicion in the keen glance.

"You're not the sort of girl to be knocking about the ice—at a hotel," he said at last, as though satisfied.

"How do you know what I'm like?" she retorted quickly. "You are hardly qualified to judge."

"Pardon, mademoiselle, I do not know what you are—but I do know very certainly what you are not."

And—smiling a little—"I think we have just had ocular demonstration of the fact that you're not accustomed to fencing for yourself."

There was something singularly attractive about his smile. It lightened his whole face, contradicting the settled gravity that seemed habitual to it, and Jean found herself smiling back in response.

"Well, as a matter of fact, I'm not," she admitted. "I came here with my father, and he was—was suddenly called away. I am going on to stay with friends."

"This is my last day here," he remarked with sudden irrelevance. "I am off first thing tomorrow morning."

"You're not stopping at the hotel, are you?"

He shook his head.

"No. I'm staying at a friend's chalet a little way beyond it. Maia, voyons, mademoiselle, you will catch cold sitting there. Are you too frightened to try the ice again?"

He seemed to assume that her next easy would be made in his company. Jean spoke a little hurriedly.

"Oh, no, I was supposed to have a lesson with Monsieur Griotlet this morning. He is an instructor," she explained. "But he was engaged coaching someone else when I came out."

"And which is this Monsieur Griotlet? Can you see him?"

Jean's glance ranged over the scattered figures on the rink.

"Yes. There he is."

His eyes followed the direction indicated.

"He seems to be well occupied at the moment," he commented. "Suppose—would you allow me to act as coach instead?"

She hesitated. This stranger appeared to be uncompromisingly progressive in his tendencies.

"I'm perfectly capable," he added curiously.

"I'm sure of that. But—"

His eyes twinkled.

"But it would not be quite 'commode' if I did it?"

"Well, it wouldn't, would it?" she retorted.

His face grew suddenly grave, and he noticed that when in repose there were deep, straight lines on either side of his mouth—lines that are usually only furrowed by severe suffering, either mental or physical.

"Mademoiselle," he said quietly. "To-day, it seems, we two very lonely people. Couldn't we forget what 'commode' means for once? We shall probably never meet again. We know nothing of each other—just ships that pass in the night! Let us make another company—like this one day together."

He drew a step nearer to her.

"Will you?" he said. "Will you?"

He was looking down at her with eyes that were curiously bright and compelling. There was a tense note in his voice which once again sent that disconcerting tremor of consciousness tingling through her blood.

She knew that his proposal was impertinent, unconventional, even regarded from the standpoint of the modern British interpretation of the law of Mrs. Grundy she ought to snub him soundly for his presumption and retrace her steps to the hotel with all the dignity at her command.

But she did none of these things. Instead, she stood staring, alternately flushing and paling beneath the oddly concentrated gaze he bent on her.

"I swear it shall bind you to nothing," he pursued urgently. "Not even to recognizing me the street should our ways ever chance to cross again. Though that is hardly likely to occur!"

—with a shrug—"seeing that mademoiselle is French and that I am rarely out of England. It will be just one day that we shall have shared together out of the whole of life."

... the 'darkness again and a silence' ... I can promise you the 'silence'!" he added with a sudden harsh infection.

It was that bitter note which won the day. In some subtle, subconscious way Jean sensed the pain which lay at the back of it. She answered impulsively:

"Very well. It shall be as you wish."

A rarely sweet smile curved the man's grave lips.

"Thank you," he said simply.

CHAPTER IV. The Stolen Day

"Encore une fois! Bravo! That went better!"

Monsieur Griotlet's understudy had amply justified his claim to capability. After a morning's tuition at his hands, Jean found her progress in the art of skating considerably enhanced.

She was even beginning to master the mysteries of "cross-cut" and "rook turns," and a somewhat attenuated figure eight lay freshly scored on the ice to her credit.

"You are really a wonderful instructor," she acknowledged, surveying the graven witness to her progress with considerable satisfaction.

Her self-appointed teacher smiled.

"There is something to be said for the pupil, also," he replied. "But now—glancing at his watch—"I vote we call a halt for lunch."

"Lunch!" Jean's glance measured the distance to the hotel with some dismay.

"But not lunch at the hotel," interposed her companion quickly. Jean regarded him with curiosity.

"Where then, monsieur?"

"Up there!" he pointed towards the pine-woods. "Above the woods there is a hut of sorts—erected as a shelter in case of sudden storms for people coming up from the lower valley to Motavann and beyond. It's a rough little shanty, but it would serve very well as a temporary safe manger. It isn't a long climb," he added persuasively. "Are you too tired to take it on after your recent exertion?"

"Not in the least. But are you expounding a way of escape of that description to be miraculously endowed with a well-furnished larder?"

"No. But I think my knapsack can make good the deficiency," he replied composedly.

Jean looked at him with dancing eyes. Having once yielded to the day's unconventional adventure, she had surrendered herself whole-heartedly to the enjoyment of it.

She made one reservation, however. Some instinct of self-protection prevented her from enlightening her companion as to her partly English nationality. There was no real necessity for it, seeing that he spoke French with the utmost fluency, and his assumption that she was a French woman seemed in some way to limit the feeling of intimacy, conferring on her, as it were, a little of the freedom of an incognito.

"A la bonne heure!" she exclaimed gaily. "So you invite me to share your lunch, monsieur le professeur?"

"I've invited you to share my day, haven't I?" he replied, smiling.

They steered for the bank, and when he had helped off her skates and removed his own, slinging them over his arm, they started off along the steep white track which wound its way upwards through the pine-woods.

As they left the bright sunlight that had glittered on the snowy slopes behind them, it seemed as though they plunged suddenly into another world—a still, mysterious, twilight place, where the snow underfoot muffled the sound of their steps and the long shadows of the pines barred their path with sinister, distorted shapes.

Making More Butter
A statement just issued by the Dominion Dairy and Cold Storage Branch shows that butter production in Canada has apparently increased during the seven months ending July, 1931, by 25,378,726 pounds, or about 15.5 per cent, as compared with the corresponding period last year.

He came down to breakfast quite early on his first morning at the country hotel.

"Will you take tea, coffee or cocoa?" the waitress asked.

"Whichever you call it."

It was that bitter note which won the day. In some subtle, subconscious way Jean sensed the pain which lay at the back of it. She answered impulsively:

"Very well. It shall be as you wish."

A rarely sweet smile curved the man's grave lips.

"Thank you," he said simply.

Germany Building Glass Houses

Young Woman Architect Predicts They Will Be Common

People who live in glass houses will be no more exceptional than those whose dwellings are brick, stone or wood ten or fifteen years from now, according to Margaret V. Van Pelt, young New York architect. Miss Van Pelt, who recently became a member of a long established New York firm of architects, has returned to work in her New York office after a year studying trends in architecture in Europe.

"The Germans are building glass houses already," she explained. "I saw several of them. Of course the glass has to be of the strongest sort. They are using glass also to decorate interiors. Sometimes it is transparent and sometimes black."

"Glass, metal and strong colour contrasts in decorating exteriors are the newest notes in building design in Germany. The tendency toward geometric effects is even more marked than in our American skyscrapers. City blocks in which pink, blue, beige and mauve coloured houses stand side by side are being erected."

Her reply is splendid. Her very heart she bares; But as dusk deepens she must know What bleak despair!

I know how she must shudder Through the black abyss of night; In all the whirling universe No golden light!

I know how she must ache for The signal-lights of dawn; Her feet-filled vigils I can share Since you are gone!

Yet eastward I am looking, Tomorrow's gates are almost won; I lift my petals up in hope, Come back, my sun!

I know how she must ache for The signal-lights of dawn; Her feet-filled vigils I can share Since you are gone!

How To Avoid Colds
Eating Plenty Of Vegetables and Fruit Is Good Prevention

"I caught a cold" is about the silliest expression heard today. No one tries to catch a cold. The trouble with us is that we do not try very hard to keep a cold from catching us.

That is why we meet so many today who are complaining about what happened when the weather changed. Only about 17 per cent of each 100 manage to get through a year without suffering from at least a mild cold. Some people suffer several times during the year.

One of the most important things you can do, both to prevent and to correct colds, is to keep your body as alkaline as possible. Vegetables, fruits and milk in the diet will do this.

If, however, you are complaining on a hot bath and get into a warm bed immediately. Then drink a full glass of hot lemonade. Sweat out those poisons. In the morning squeeze the juice of a lemon into a half glass of water. Stir in a half teaspoon of baking soda and drink it while it bubbles. Repeat this three times a day until your cold has disappeared. Remember, however, that if your cold fails to respond promptly your physician should be interviewed. A little cold is often a dangerous thing.

For Poor Sportsmen
Geneco Has Ingenious Invention To Aid In Catching Fish

Poor sportsmen would welcome an ingenious invention to aid in catching fish. A Geneco fisherman fitted a light and some clockwork to a number of lines. When the fish tugs at the line the light begins to flash and the clockwork starts to wind in the line. When the fisherman gets to it all he has to do is remove the fish and rebait the hook to start the process again. The original invention utilized twenty lines.

Health cannot be looked for in the child that is subject to worms, because worms destroy health by creating internal disturbances that retard development and cause serious weakness. Miller's Worm Powders exert worms and are so beneficial in their action that the system of the little sufferers are restored to healthfulness, all the discomforts and dangers of worm infection are removed, and satisfactory growth is assured.

When You CAN'T QUIT

Fatigue is the signal to rest. Obey it if you can. When you can't, keep cool and carry on in comfort.

Aspirin was meant for just such times, for it insures your comfort. Freedom from those pains that nag at nerves and wear you down. One tablet will block that threatening headache while it is still just a threat. Take two or three tablets when you've caught a cold, and that's usually the end of it.

Carry Aspirin tablets when you travel. Have some at home and keep some at the office. Like an efficient secretary, they will often "save the day" and spare you many uncomfortable, unproductive hours. Aspirin is harmless, so keep it handy, keep it in mind, and use it.

No man of affairs can afford to ignore the score and more of uses explained in the green directions. From a grumbling tooth to those rheumatic pains which seem almost to bend the house, Aspirin tablets are ready with quick relief—and always work. Neuritis. Neuritis. Any nagging, needless pain.

Get the genuine tablets, stamped with the Bayer cross. They are of perfect purity, absolute uniformity, and have the same action every time. Why experiment with imitations—costing a few cents less? The saving is too little. There is too much at stake. But there is economy in the purchase of genuine Aspirin tablets in the large bottles.

Treasure Seekers May Carry Arms To Guard Against Sea Pirates

Precautions against hijackers, such as occasionally raid rich liquor laden ships, will be taken by Lieut.-Col. J. E. Leckie, head of the Vancouver expedition which in a few weeks will sail to Cocos Island to search for the buried treasure of ancient pirates.

Col. Leckie has communicated with the Department of National Defence seeking permission to arm his ship against eventualities on the sea or on Cocos Island. Col. Leckie wants the use of machine guns and "pom-poms" which are in the arsenal at Esquimalt. Even if this permission is not granted, the ship will be armed against possible sea raiders. Col. Leckie has already arranged to carry privately owned machine guns and numerous rifles.
